Detailed Action

Response to Amendment

Claims 1-26 are pending. This action is in response to the remark received October 5, 2005.

Response to Arguments

The rejection of claims 1-26 under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being unpatentable over Bukow (US 2002/0026338) is maintained.

Applicant's arguments filed October 5, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to the arguments concerning the previously rejected claims the following comments are made:

A.) Applicant alleges that the prior art made of record fails to teach providing a first client with access to the reputation service via a communications network to furnish the information regarding a reputation of a selected party relative to the given trait. The examiner disagrees with applicant's representative since Bukow teaches providing a first client with access to the reputation service via a communications network to furnish the information regarding a reputation of a selected party relative to the given trait (para. 0030 and 0052). In other words, Bukow teaches matching is automatically performed as workers are added and/or updated in relation to reputation. In that, he discloses an evaluation form to project creators and workers. The project creator evaluation allows the employer to evaluate the worker on various performance factors: timeliness, responsiveness, cost control, value for the money, capability, quality, and/or other factors.

B.) Applicant alleges that the prior art made of record fails to teach accepting remuneration for furnishing the portion of reputation data to the client. The examiner disagrees with applicant's representative since Bukow teaches accepting remuneration for furnishing the portion of reputation data to the client (para. 0029). In other words, Bukow allows a worker to specify how much he/she is willing to pay (i.e. remuneration) for a successful match in relation to the reputation of workers versus a project. In that, the system allows workers to pay a small fee (i.e. remuneration) for a preference in matching. Basically, Bukow discloses an Internet system matching reputation of workers and project creators or projects.

C.) Applicant alleges that the prior art made of record fails to teach providing an automated reputation service for furnishing information regarding reputations of parties relative to multiple traits. The examiner disagrees with applicant's representative since Bukow teaches providing an automated reputation service for furnishing information regarding reputations of parties relative to multiple traits (para. 0031 and 0052). In other words, Bukow teaches multiple traits according the rest of the claimed limitations when he discloses the more feedback a worker or project provider gives the more value he/she gathers when matching in the future. This, also, allows the worker to rate the project, the appropriateness of the description, the ease of working with a particular employer, and/or other factors. Thus, Bukow discloses multiple traits in relation to multiple factors.

With regards to the claims rejected as anticipated over Bukow, the examiner would like to point out that the reference teaches the claimed limitations and thus provides adequate support for the claimed limitations. Therefore, the examiner maintains that Bukow anticipated the claimed limitations.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
